REPORT.

STUDENTS.

In the Session 1845–46 the total number of Students and Pupils in the College was 812. In the Faculty of Arts and Laws there were 198 Students, including 29 attendants on the Schoolmasters' Classes. In the Faculty of Medicine the number of Students was 312. There were 305 Pupils in the Junior School: the highest number in one term was 263. The Fees amounted to 13,832*l.* 7*s.*, of which the sum of 7113*l.* 7*s.* was received for the Faculty of Medicine; 3019*l.* for the Faculty of Arts and Laws; and 3700*l.* for the Junior School. The Professors and Masters were paid 8476*l.* 0*s.* 9*d.*, besides 300*l.* for augmentations: the sum of 2202*l.*, the amount of fees received for Hospital Practice, was transferred to the Hospital Committee: and there remained for the College portion, 3154*l.* 19*s.* 3*d.* In the present Session the number of Entries is as follows: to the Classes of the Medical Faculty, 281, being the same as at the corresponding period of last Session; the new entries are 69, which is less by 15 than last Session: to Hospital Practice, 79 new entries: to the Classes of the Faculty of Arts and Laws, 224; of these 102 are new, and 37 are entries to the Schoolmasters' Classes.

There are now 284 boys in the Junior School: at the corresponding period of the last year the number was 251.

The Members of the College will participate in the satisfaction which the Council derives from the gradual advance in the Faculty of Arts and the Junior School. The Class of Mathematics has this year 115 Students; that of Latin 79; that of Greek 70. The increase in the Class of Natural Philosophy has been from 46 last year to 74 this year: in that of English Language and Literature, from 10 to 27.

DEGREES AND HONOURS.

Of the 58 Graduates of the University of London in the year 1846, 35 were from University College. Of those Graduates 11 took the M.D. Degree, 6 were from 4 Schools, and 5 from University College: 2 M.A.,—1 from University College: 2 LL.B. were from 2 Schools: 13 M.B. from 8 Schools,—3 from University College: 30 B.A. from 10 Schools,—11 from University College. 25 Undergraduates passed the first Examination in Medicine; they were from 5 Schools, and 15 of them from University College. The Matriculations were 97 from 34 Schools,—28 from University College.

At the Examination for Honours in Arts, both the Scholarships were awarded to Students of this College: that in Mathematics to Mr. Walter Bagehot, formerly of Bristol College; that in Classics to Mr. William Rushton.

At the First Examination for the Degree of M.B., Gold Medals were awarded to Mr. Thomas Littleton for Anatomy and Physiology, to Mr. Thomas Armstrong Cammack for Chemistry, and to Mr. Joseph Burgon for Materia Medica and Pharmaceutical Chemistry.

At the Matriculation Examination Mr. William Fowler obtained Two Gold Medals, namely in Chemistry and Zoology.

Two Flaherty Scholarships of the College have been recently awarded: for Proficiency in Mathematics to Mr. George Yool; for Proficiency in Classics to Mr. Henry Gladdish Rosher. The Examiners for the Council were Mr. R. L. Ellis, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, and Mr. G. S. Venables, of Jesus College, Cambridge, M.A.

For the Mathematical Scholarship the successful Candidate had a competitor so nearly equal to him in Mr. Robert Baldwin Hayward, that the Examiners were disposed to recommend the division of the Scholarship; the Council did not feel themselves at liberty to adopt that course, but directed that a Gold Medal should be presented to Mr. Hayward, with a copy of that part of the Report of the Examiners which related to the nearly equal merits of the two Candidates, and an expression of regret that circumstances did not admit of their bestowing two Scholarships. Mr. Robert Braithwaite Batty was reported to the Council as having acquitted himself most respectably at the same Examination. It is gratifying to the Council that Mr. Rosher, Mr. Yool, Mr. Hayward and Mr. Batty were all formerly Pupils of the Junior School. The Council observe with satisfaction that an increase in the number of competitors has followed a change in the Rules by which the limitation of age has been abolished in these Scholarships.

The Annual 40*l.* Prize for General Proficiency as a Medical Student was obtained by Mr. William Henry Ransom.

The Council notice with pleasure that the Hindoo Students made satisfactory progress, and competed for Honours both in the College and the University; in some instances with eminent success. The credit of this result the College very willingly shares with the Medical College of Calcutta.

During the past year the following gentlemen, who had some years previously graduated with Honours at the University of London, were admitted Fellows of this College:—Edmund Alexander Parkes, M.D.; Charles Brodie Sewell, M.D.; the Rev. Samuel Newth, M.A.; William Shaen, M.A.; George Jessel, M.A., and Timothy Smith Osler, B.A.

As incidental to Academical Honours, the Council cannot omit the opportunity of paying their tribute of respect to the memory of a deceased member to whom the College is indebted for the endowment of the Clinical Gold Medals—Dr. Fellowes, who was an original proprietor of 10 shares, and continued during his life to be a warm and active friend to the Institution. He was one year a Member of the Council; and for several years, until prevented by ill health, he rendered valuable service by constant attendance at the meetings of the Managing Committee of the Hospital, of which he was a very liberal supporter.

The grant of Clinical Medals has had the desired and very important effect of stimulating the diligence of Students in the observation of cases: the good resulting from it will long continue to be acknowledged, and with the Medal itself impressed with the portrait of Dr. Fellowes, will be a durable monument to the memory of its venerable author.

BIRKBECK LABORATORY OF CHEMISTRY.

The Members of the College have already been informed that the sum collected for a Testimonial to the late Dr. Birkbeck has been paid to the College, and that the Laboratory of Analytical Chemistry has been constituted such Testimonial by the title of the "Birkbeck Laboratory," in connection with which the Council have instituted an Evening Course of Instruction in Practical Chemistry at a reduced fee, for persons practically engaged in manufactures. The following extract from the College Prospectus will recall the particulars of this transaction:—

"In the year 1841, the Mechanics' Institution, and similar bodies in London and the country, determined to open a subscription for the purpose of commemorating the services rendered by Dr. Birkbeck to the cause of Education; and at a public meeting, held at the Freemasons' Tavern in 1842, it was resolved that any fund so subscribed should be devoted to founding, in University College, London, a Professorship of Machinery and Manufactures, to be called the Birkbeck Professorship. It was estimated that the sum required for endowing such a Professorship would be £1500. The subscriptions, however, did not exceed £500, and the design was necessarily abandoned.

"The Council of the College having recently erected a Laboratory for Practical Instruction in Organic and General Chemistry, and the Principles of Chemical Research as applied, more particularly, to the Manufacturing Arts, it was thought that this Laboratory would constitute a most appropriate Testimonial to Dr. Birkbeck, under the title of the 'Birkbeck Laboratory of Chemistry'; especially if an Evening Course of Instruction in Practical Chemistry at a reduced fee and at times suited to the convenience of persons practically engaged in Manufactures could be connected with it. It has been agreed that the Committee of Subscribers shall co-operate with the Council in an appeal to the public for further contributions towards the twofold object of an acknowledgement of the services of Dr. Birkbeck, and promoting a most useful Scientific Institution. The cost of the Laboratory has exceeded £2500."

The sum received by the College from the Committee was £430: at the instance of Lord Brougham, £500 has been contributed from the funds bestowed on the College by "Patriot." There have been additional subscriptions to the amount of £195, of which £100 by Messrs. Thos. Hoyle and Co.; and hopes are entertained that more will be received. The Council avail themselves of this opportunity to express their acknowledgments to the subscribers to the Birkbeck Testimonial for this appropriation of their funds.

LEGACY.

In the month of May the Council had the satisfaction of receiving notice of a Legacy to the College by Mr. Holloway of the sum of £2000 clear of duty, to be applied for the benefit of the Institution at the discretion of the Council. The Bequest was accompanied by the expression of a wish that the annual interest should be applied in educating in the Junior School of the College as many boys as the interest will allow; such boys, without distinction as to religious creeds or opinions, to be elected and appointed by the Council from the sons of respectable parents who may need pecuniary assistance in the education of their children.

When the Council shall have received the amount of this Bequest, it will be their duty to consider the most advisable means of applying the proceeds of the Legacy in fulfilment of the wishes of the Testator.

The following particulars concerning Mr. Holloway have been communicated by Mr. Spozzi, one of the executors of his will:—

"Mr. Holloway was the son of Mr. William Holloway, a mercer of Devizes, Wilts, where he was born, and where, as a child, he was the playmate of the late Sir Thomas Lawrence. His father afterwards removed to the neighbouring town of Chippenham. At his decease the son was placed with his uncle, William Symonds, Esq., the original Banker of Hereford. At the age of twenty-three Mr. Holloway became a partner in the 'Hereford Old Bank,' and continued as the managing partner, under the various alterations of the firm, until 1826, when it discontinued business. Since that time he lived in private, enjoying the advantage of a highly cultivated mind; his great abilities and unsullied reputation commanding the respect and esteem of his fellow-citizens. His acquaintance with the literature of France was considerable, and, during the last few years, he had become passionately fond of the study of mathematics. His desire to promote liberal education has been evinced by his leaving £300 to the British and Foreign School at Devizes, and £100 to a similar school at Ross; and he has sufficiently marked by his bequest of £2000 (nearly one-sixth of all he possessed) his approbation of the principles on which the University College, London, is established. He died a bachelor, at Chippenham, on the 25th of May last, aged 74, and was buried at his native place Devizes."

PROFESSORSHIPS.

Since the last General Meeting vacancies have occurred in the Professorships of Latin and of Clinical Medicine. Mr. Long resigned the Chair of Latin on receiving the appointment of Reader on Jurisprudence and Civil Law in the Middle Temple. The Council viewed with much regret the retirement from the College of an eminent scholar who had discharged the duties of his Professorship with great success. The Chair has been filled by Mr. Francis William Newman, formerly Fellow of Baliol College, Oxford, and the state of the Class justifies the confident expectation of the Council that its high character will have been perfectly maintained by the election of Mr. Newman. The Chair of Clinical Medicine was resigned by Dr. Taylor on his being elected Physician to the Infirmary in his native town, Huddersfield, an appointment which the state of his health caused his preferring to that which he held in London. The College is much indebted to Dr. Taylor for the assiduity and ability with which he carried into execution the views of the Council and Medical Faculty in establishing this important Professorship, which he was the first to hold. Dr. Walshe, previously Professor of Pathological Anatomy in the College, and Physician to the Hospital with the care of out-patients, has been appointed to succeed Dr. Taylor. The Professorship of Pathological Anatomy has been resigned by Dr. Walshe; it is not proposed to fill up that Chair at present, but at the request of the Council Dr. Walshe has engaged to deliver the Course during the next Summer Session.

An important step has been recently taken by the Council for the extension of the system of instruction provided for Students in Civil Engineering. They have established a distinct Professorship of the "Mechanical Principles of Engineering," and have appointed to the Chair Mr. Eaton Hodgkinson, a gentleman greatly distinguished by his investigations, discoveries, and writings on that particular branch of science. The course of instruction to be given by Mr. Hodgkinson will not supersede nor interfere with those of the Professors of Natural Philosophy and Civil Engineering previously connected with the College; on the contrary, it will be auxiliary to theirs, including details of subjects which the scope of lectures delivered by them would only admit of their incidentally alluding to. The Council are still engaged in considering how they may procure for their Students further extension of practical instruction in Engineering and Machinery.

FINANCES.

The entire Expenditure was 17,375*l.* 11*s.* 5*d.*; the Income from ordinary sources was 14,510*l.* 12*s.* 7*d.*; to make up the difference the Council sold 3000*l.* Consols. The excess of expenditure was occasioned by outlays for extraordinary purposes, principally for the Laboratory of Analytical Chemistry, the main part of the cost of which, namely 2456*l.* 2*s.* 5*d.*, fell within the year. Improvements in the Class-rooms of the Junior School and other alterations, with the augmentations of Professors' emoluments, together amounting to about 600*l.*, may also be classed as extraordinary expenses. The ordinary receipt and ordinary expenditure were about equal.

THE HOSPITAL.

The year 1846 will be memorable in the history of the College as that in which the main building of the Hospital was completed, by the erection of the North Wing. This event, so important to the Medical School, must be gratifying to all friends of the College. The Council derive from it especial satisfaction; and they tender their hearty thanks to the many kind and zealous supporters by whose charitable aid this great and useful work has been accomplished at a much earlier period than at its commencement was or could have been expected. The Council are withheld by delicacy towards a member of their own body from expressing in language corresponding with their impressions, their sense of the exertions in this cause of the Baron de Goldsmid, who has for several years discharged the duties of Treasurer to the Hospital. There still remains one respect in which the Hospital Committee as well as the Council are sensible that the Hospital is deficient, namely, in furnishing suitable accommodation for Out-patients. To remedy this imperfection, the erection of a new Dispensary with suitable waiting-rooms has been resolved on, and will be commenced forthwith. The cost will be about 600*l.* The Hospital Committee and Council have not been deterred from this undertaking by the consideration that it is rather charitable in its character than directly conducive to the interests of a Medical School. But this sacrifice has been thought not more than is due to the many benefactors of the College Hospital, who undoubtedly had at heart the interests of humanity as well as those of science, and whose liberal donations and bequests have so greatly contributed to the establishment of the Hospital. With the same view, changes have been made by the Council, and are still in progress, concerning the Medical Officers charged with the duties of attending to the Out-patients. An Apothecary has been substituted for a House-Physician as a resident officer, and it has been resolved to appoint an additional Assistant-Surgeon, and also two Assistant-Physicians in the place of Dr. Walshe, who before his appointment to the care of In-patients was the Physician charged with the care of Out-patients. The testimonials of several well-qualified Candidates, formerly distinguished Students of the College, are now under consideration.

The Council flatter themselves that their exertions will secure to them corresponding efforts on the part of the friends of this Charity for the adequate maintenance of an improved Institution. The Hospital will now hold 200 beds. To support the entire complement will require an additional income of about 2000*l.* Deriving hope for the future from the past, the Council are sanguine in their expectations that few years will elapse before the resources at the command of the Committee will be such as to justify their opening every ward for the reception of its full number of patients.

CHARLES C. ATKINSON,
Secretary to the Council.
